Introduction

Franklin Reader is the Windows CE program that lets you read, search, and bookmark reference material, Bibles, and books published by Franklin and its partners. This Guide describes how to:

- Use the Booklist
- Recognize icons and menus
- Set preferences
- Navigate within books
- Search within books
- Place bookmarks
- Get help

Usage Hints

1. Before using Franklin Reader on the Windows CE 2.11 platform make sure that the applications are allowed to change the input panel state. Select Start > Settings > Input Panel and check the box to the left of the “Allow applications to change the input panel state” inscription.
2. You can highlight only the text that is currently displayed on the screen. The Select All option on the menu is therefore shown grayed-out.
3. If you wish to immediately restart Franklin Reader after exiting, it is recommended that you wait a few seconds. Otherwise, the book that is opened upon restart may be the next to last one you were reading, not the last one.
4. Opening a book may take some time. Do not tap the display while the book is opening.

Note: The screen illustrations you see in this User's Guide may differ from what you see on the screen. The screens you see may vary depending on the device you are using or the database file that you download.

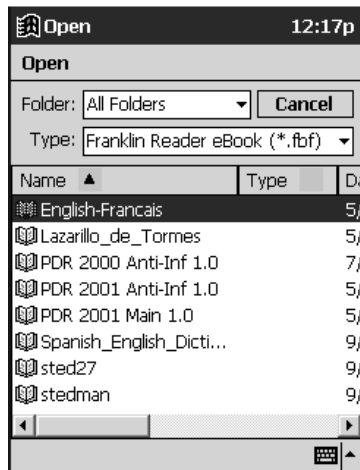

Using the Booklist

Tap  on the Menu bar to open the Application Menu.

To open Franklin Reader, select  Franklin Reader. If you did not open a book previously, you will see the Booklist.

Windows CE 2.11

Windows CE 3.0

The Booklist is the standard Windows CE File Open dialog. It allows you to browse through the file system and open a title. The Booklist contains a list of Franklin titles that are currently installed. To open a book, tap the book title you want to read.

The first screen you see is the default Home screen for the open book. To exit the Booklist, tap  for Windows CE 2.11 or Cancel for Windows CE 3.0. If you did not open a book previously, you return to the Launcher screen. If you did open a book previously, you return to the last screen viewed.

Note:

You can return to the Booklist from anywhere in the book by tapping  on the toolbar.

Note:

Long names are abbreviated in the Booklist. To see the full name of a book, tap it. Then tap the name in the Title bar in the upper part of the screen. The full name is displayed in a dialog box.

Icons, Special Markers, and Quick Commands

Franklin Reader uses Icons, Special Markers, and Quick Commands to help you quickly navigate through titles and the program.

Icons

Several icons appear in Franklin Reader. Tapping an icon enables you to quickly access another location. Most icons appear in the toolbar.

-  (Booklist) Goes to the Booklist.
-  (Home) Goes to the Home screen for the selected book.
-  (Forward) Moves forward to the previously visited location.
-  (Back) Moves back to the previously visited location.
-  (Next) Goes to the next match when viewing text after a search.
-  (Previous) Goes to the previous match when viewing text after a search.
-  (Outline) Goes to the top level of the Outline.
-  (Search) Goes to the Search screen. After a search, goes to the Search Results screen. From the Search Results screen, returns to the Search screen with the previous query word or words displayed. At the Search screen, clears the query word or words.
-  (Exit) Exits Franklin Reader and goes to the Launcher.

Note:

Icons appearing on the toolbar vary by location within the program and by available features within a book.

Inactive icons appear grayed-out on the toolbar.

Special Markers

Special markers may sometimes appear in text, indicating that more information is available. These include markers for cross-references, footnotes, figures and so on. Tap on the marker to view its information. The markers you see vary by book. The following are some examples of special markers you may encounter in your books:

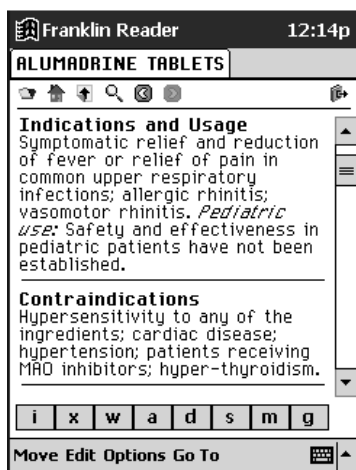

A-Z, N Indicates a footnote.

B I B Indicates a bibliographic entry.

NA	Indicates that a section of text is not available.
NF	Indicates that a graphic illustration is not available.
TABLE	Indicates a table reference.
XREF	Indicates a cross-reference.
	Indicates a user bookmark. Tap it to go to the Bookmark Edit screen.

Quick Commands

Quick Commands are buttons you can use in the text of a book to quickly go to the related section. They appear in a row at the bottom of the screen.

Tap on a letter at the bottom of the screen to go directly to the corresponding section of text.

When using Quick Commands, please note the following:

- Quick Commands only work while reading text.
- Most books do not have Quick Commands.

Using the Menus

Windows CE 3.0: The Menu is available at the bottom of the screen.

Windows CE 2.11: To invoke the Menu, tap  on the toolbar. Select a menu and then select the desired item.

Note:

The available menus and menu options vary from book to book and from view to view within a book.

Franklin Reader includes four menus: Move, Edit, Options and Go To.

Move Menu

Use the Move menu to move between different locations in a book.

- | | |
|----------------------|---|
| Back | Moves back to the previously visited location. |
| Forward | Moves forward to the previously visited location. |
| Scroll to Top | Moves to the top of the current list or section. |
| Scroll to End | Moves to the bottom of the current list or section. |
| Exit | Closes Franklin Reader . |

Edit Menu

Use the Edit menu to cut, copy and paste text, to access the on-screen keyboard, and to add bookmarks.

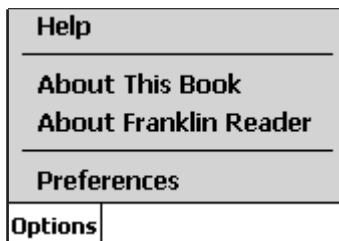

Cut	Removes selected text. The text is stored on the clipboard to be pasted to another location.
Copy	Copies selected text to the clipboard.
Paste	Pastes copied or cut text from the clipboard.
Select All	Highlights all available text at the current location.
Add Bookmark	Enables you to add a bookmark at the current location in text.

Important!

Before using the Cut and Copy functions, you must select text. Drag the stylus over the text you are selecting.

Options Menu

Use the Options menu to set your preferences, learn more about the program and the book you are reading, and get help with the program.

Help	Shows context-sensitive help.
About This Book	Displays copyright information for the current book.
About Franklin Reader	Displays the version number and copyright information for Franklin Reader .
Preferences	Enables you to set preferences for Franklin Reader and for the current book.

Go To Menu

Use the Go To menu to access the top level of the Outline or Index, to go to the Search screen and to view Search Results, the Bookmark List and the Booklist. The Bookmark List is a list of bookmarks that you have inserted in the book you are currently viewing.

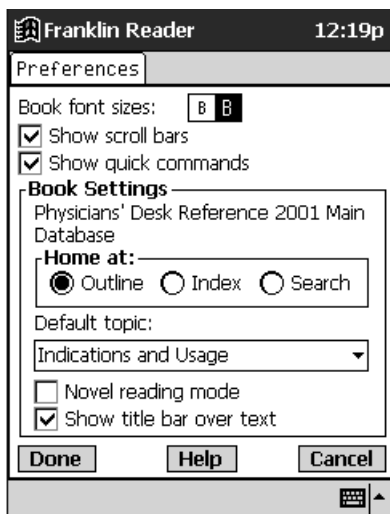

Outline	Goes to the top level of the Outline.
Index	Goes to the top level of the Index, when available.
Search	Goes to the Search screen, when available.
Search Results	Goes to the Search Results screen, when available.
Bookmark List	Displays a list of Bookmarks for the current book.
Booklist	Goes to the Franklin Reader Booklist.

Setting Preferences

You can set your preferences for Franklin Reader and for the book you are currently viewing. You can set features such as font size and display. You can select the default Home screen, display the title bar over the text, and select a start topic for each book. To set preferences, do the following:

1. From any screen within a book, choose Options > Preferences from the menu.

Note:

The Home screen is the initial screen you see when you first open a book.

2. Change the settings. You have the following options.

Book font sizes

The large B is highlighted. The default font is the large font. Tap the small B button to change your preference to a smaller font.

Show scroll bars

Tap on the check box next to the scroll bar option to deselect it.

Show quick commands

Tap on the check box next to the Quick Commands option to deselect it.

Home at

Tap on the button next to Outline, Index or Search to select it as the Home screen of the current book.

- Default topic Tap the down arrow to see the list of topics that you can set as the starting point for viewing text. This option is not available in every book.
- Novel reading mode Tap on the check box next to this option to format a book with margins and justification. The text appears more like a printed book. By default, this option is not checked.
- Show title bar over text The default is to show the title bar over the text. Tap on the check box to deselect it.

Note:

The options on the Preferences screen may vary by book.

You can tap Help to get information about the settings.

3. Tap Done to save your changes.

Tap Cancel to exit without changing the defaults.

Moving Around

The program has five views: List, Text, Sub-text, Bookmark List, and Bookmark Edit view. List view displays a list of books, chapters, sections, and so forth. Text view displays the text of the book. Sub-text view displays additional text such as bibliographic entries, footnotes, and tables. Bookmark List view offers options for going to a bookmarked text or Bookmark Edit view. The latter provides options for editing and deleting bookmarks. You can move through lists to reach text and you can tap on icons or use Quick Commands to see text. In both List and Text views, you can move forward or back to the previously visited location by tapping  or  on the toolbar.

See also:

For information on how to use bookmarks see “Using Bookmarks”.

In List View

Tap on the desired list item. Many lists are short and easy to navigate. When a list does not fit one screen, a scroll bar appears.

Note:

The diagonal arrow to the left of a listed item indicates another list below that can be bypassed. Tap the arrow to bypass the sub-list.

Moving Between Lists

The Outline lists the various parts, chapters, sections and sub-sections of a book. The Index, when available, is a list of sections or topics of interest. Other lists include, but are not limited to, the Booklist and Bookmark List. The items on each list are determined by the content of the book.

To move between the lists, choose Go To from the menu and select a list.

See also:

For information on how to move through a book using Quick Commands, see “Quick Commands”.

Moving by Line or Screen

In a list, you can move around in one of several ways:

1. Tap the up and down arrows on the scroll bar, press the up and down navigational arrows on the unit, or turn the wheel (when available) to move up or down one line at a time.

2. Tap the scroll bar above or below the slider to move up or down one screen at a time.

To exit, tap Close.

Moving by Letter

When you either write letters or numbers or tap them on the keyboard, they appear in the “Look Up” line at the bottom of the screen. The highlight automatically moves to the first list item starting with those characters.

In Text View

When reading text, you can move around in one of several ways.

1. Tap the up and down arrows on the scroll bar to move up or down one line at a time.
2. Press the navigational arrows on the unit, tap on the scroll bar above or below the slider, or turn the wheel (when available) to move up or down one screen at a time.

In Sub-Text View

Sub-text is one layer below text view. Examples of sub-text are footnotes, bibliographic references, and tables. Tap A-Z, N, B I B, and other special markers to see sub-text. To return to the text you were reading tap . Sub-text screens may have a scroll bar. Use the scroll arrows as you would in text view.

In Bookmark List View

If the Bookmark List fills more than one screen, a scroll bar appears.

There are several ways to move around while reading a Bookmark List.

1. Tap the up and down arrows on the scroll bar, press the navigational arrows on the unit, or turn the wheel (when available) to move up or down one line at a time.
2. Tap the scroll bar above or below the slider to move up or down one screen at a time.

To exit, tap Close.

Searching a Book

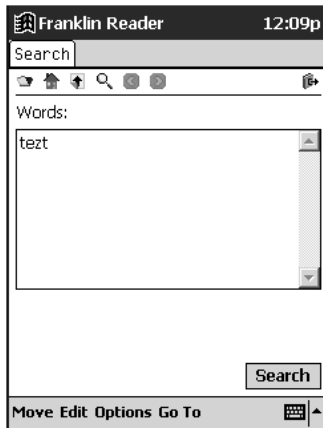

You can find the desired information using the Search screen, when available. In a list, you can quickly go to the list item you want by either writing letters or numbers one at a time or by tapping them on the keyboard. If you enter a series of letters, the program searches for them in sequence.

To select an item, tap it. You can then move through lists to locate the information you are looking for.

List items vary by book.

Using the Search Screen

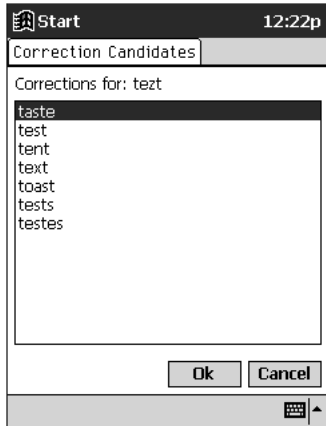

To go to the Search screen from any location, tap  or choose Go To > Search from the menu.

Note:

The Search screen is not available in all books.

At the Search screen, you can either enter up to six searchable words or paste text that was previously copied to the clipboard. Once a word or words are entered, tap Search to initiate the search.

If any of your words are misspelled, a list of possible corrections appears. If you see the word you need, tap it, then tap OK to continue the search using the correction. To go back to the Search screen and change the word, tap Cancel. If you are not sure how to spell a word use “?” to stand for a single letter or * to stand for zero, one or more letters. For example, if you are not sure whether the word is spelled “receipt” or “reciept”, write “rec??pt” and tap Search. To see all the words that begin with “hypo”, write *hypo and tap Search.

Note:

Capitalization and punctuation are not necessary.

A list of possible matches is displayed. Tap the up or down arrows at the right of this list to scroll up or down the list. If you see the desired word, tap it, then tap OK to conduct a search using that word. To go back to the Search screen and change the request, tap Cancel.

Any time you enter search words that cannot be found, you will see a dialog box that says “No candidates found.”

Windows CE 2.11

Windows CE 3.0

Search results are assigned categories to help you easily determine the part of a book in which your words were matched - a chapter title, definition, book text or index. Results may be found in more than one category. If the More button appears on the Search Results screen, it indicates that more search matches are available in a different category. Tap More to see them.

Search results can occur in the following categories:

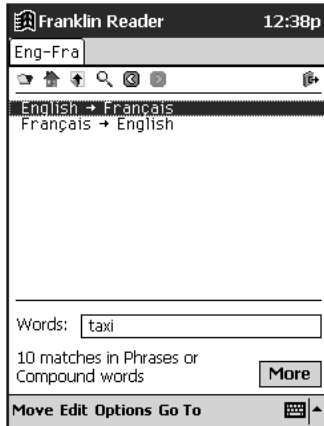

A. Headwords

These matches occur when the word or words you entered match a headword exactly. Inflections and root words may be considered exact matches.

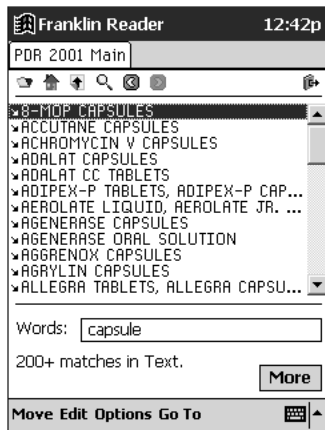

B. Phrases or Compound Words

These matches occur when the word or words you entered match part of a compound word or phrase.

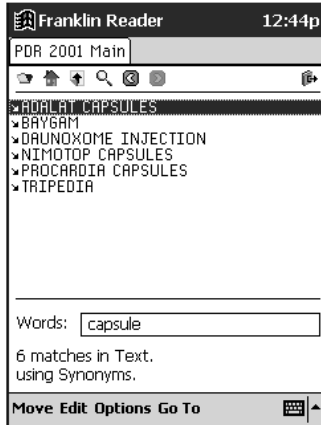

C. Text

These matches occur when the word or words you entered match a single verse or paragraph of text or match inflections or run-ons within a definition. You must tap through the Outline until you see the text containing the matching words. Your search word or words will be boxed.

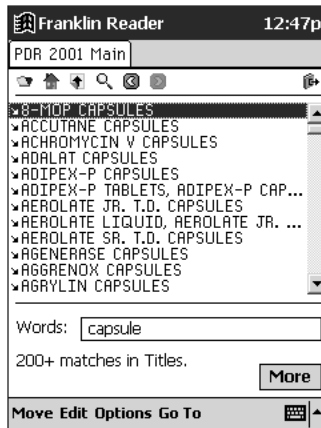

D. Text using Synonyms

Synonyms are words of similar meaning and usage. This category returns matches in the same manner that the "Text" category does except that it uses synonyms for the word or words you entered.

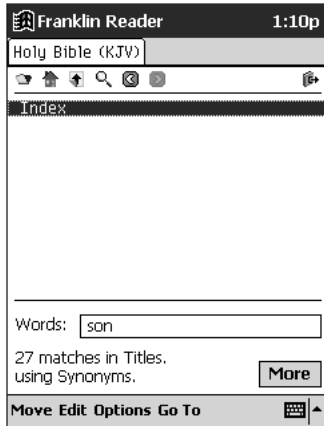

E. Titles

These matches occur when the word or words you entered all match part of an Outline title (for example, a monograph name, chapter title, section title, index title, headword or phrase). Inflections and root words are considered matches.

F. Titles using Synonyms

Synonyms are words of similar meaning and usage. This category returns matches in the same manner that the “Titles” category does except that it uses synonyms for the word or words you entered.

G. Titles & Text

These matches occur when some of the words you entered match part of an Outline and some appear in the text. You must enter the text to see these matches. This category also returns matches if the words you entered occur in different titles along a single Outline path. You must tap through the Outline until you see the text containing the matching words.

H. Titles & Text using Synonyms

Synonyms are words of similar meaning and usage. This category returns matches in the same manner that the “Titles & Text” category does except that it uses synonyms for the word or words you entered.

I. Words, Phrases, or Compound Words

These matches occur during a restricted search when the word or words you entered match the entire headword and part of a compound word or phrase.

J. Entries using other forms

These matches occur when other forms of the word or words you entered match a compound word or phrase. Other forms include inflections and root words.

Matches may be returned in the following categories depending on the type of book you are reading:

- Dictionary - A, C, E
- Holy Bible - C, D, E, F, G, H
- Medical Reference - C, D, E, F, G, H
- Translator - A, B, I, J

Note:

Not all of the categories described are available in every book. Not every search request will return matches in every category available to that book. In some instances, you may need to tap More to see a particular category.

Note:

In some books, you can restrict the search to specific parts of the book by writing section, book or language abbreviations. These abbreviations and the books they apply to are listed in “Search Abbreviations”.

3. Tap OK to add a bookmark.

You can exit without adding a bookmark by tapping Cancel. You can also remove an entered bookmark by tapping Delete. When you enter a bookmark, a special marker appears in the text.

Viewing and Editing an Entered Bookmark

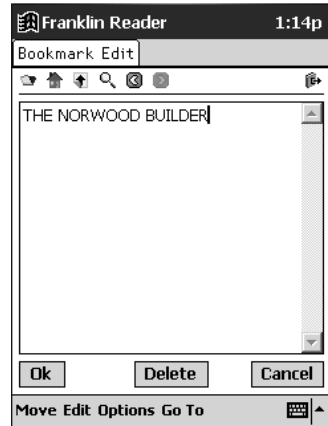

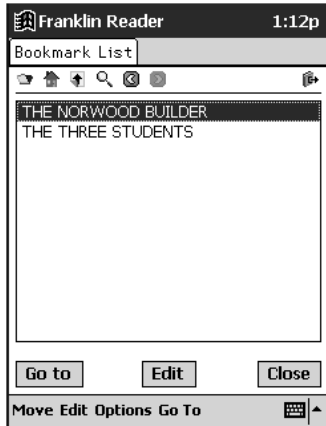

You can view the text of an existing bookmark or a list of all bookmarks.

To go to the Bookmark List, choose Go To > Bookmark List from the menu.

Note:

When the bookmark fills more than one screen, a scroll bar appears. Tap on the up and down arrows or the scroll bar to move through the text.

Tap twice on the title of a bookmark or tap Go To to go to its location in the text. Or choose a bookmark on the list and tap Edit to go to the Bookmark Edit screen. The Bookmark Edit view can also be accessed from text view by tapping .

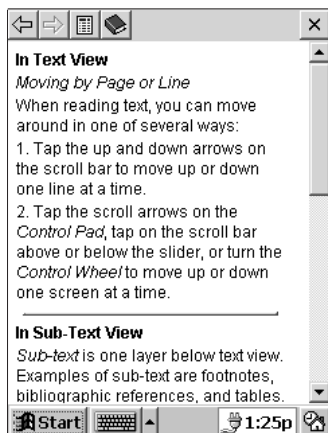

On the Bookmark Edit screen:

1. Enter or edit the desired text.
2. Tap OK to save your changes.

Tap Cancel to exit without saving the changes. You also can delete a bookmark by tapping Delete.
